Narrow Escape.

We are called upon to relate this morning, one of the most foul and depraved acts of villainy that can possibly befoul the human heart. As the night train of cars was on its way down night before last from Chattanooga, the engineer was fortunate enough to discover a short distance this side of Decherd's Depot that some villainous scoundrels ing municipal election. had placed several pieces of timber across the track for the purpose of accomplishing their inhuman de-

We are pleased to state that no damage was done whatever. We hope the parties who have been guilty of such an outrage as this may be detected, and be made to suffer the most excraciating punishment that human ingenuity can devise. "Of for a thousand scorpion stings to lush such scoundrels naked through the land."
